About

I'm Neil Angelo A. Unabia, 2nd year student taking up a diploma program in Computer Engineering Technology at CITE Technical Institute, Inc.

I'm passionate about expressing my creativity through drawing, designing, and animation. From a young age, I discovered the joy of bringing ideas to life on paper, exploring the endless possibilities of design, and immersing myself in the captivating world of animation.

Whether it's sketching intricate illustrations, crafting visually appealing designs, or animating stories that come to life, I find immense joy in every stroke and pixel. My journey is a blend of continuous learning and the sheer delight of seeing my imagination unfold through various artistic mediums.
